

Putting people in the planning picture

David Miller¹, Richard Birnie¹, Dave Stevens¹ and Tom McInnes²
email: d.miller@macaulay.ac.uk ¹The Macaulay Institute, Aberdeen ²Callisto Productions Ltd

How do we communicate the role of our research?

“Putting people in the planning picture”, was produced to communicate the purpose, role and potential effectiveness of tools to support discussion between policy makers, planners, researchers and the public in environmental decision making.

The film:

- Focuses on research into public engagement which uses interactive visualisation and voting tools
- Uses interviews with elected representatives, policy makers and the public to communicate reactions and recommendations on the applicability and use of the tools

Over 1200 people watched the film on the internet in the first month of its launch.

COMMISSIONED BY SCOTTISH EXECUTIVE

PARTNER INSTITUTE
 THE MACAULAY INSTITUTE
research today for land use tomorrow

Watch the film at macaulay.ac.uk/planning or obtain a copy on DVD from the Macaulay Institute.